LOTTERY REVIVAL.

GAMBLERS AGAIN LOOKING TO HONOLULU.

Williams and Lee, Two Lottery Promoters, Have Recently Been at Work in This Country.

The Hawaiian lottery scheme is being revived and its projectors have been at work in this country for several weeks.

It will be remembered that last year a bill was introduced in the Hawaiian legislature authorizing a lottery company, composed of American capitalists, to transact a general lottery business on the islands. The company seeking to establish the lottery in Honolulu agreed to devote to the Hawaiian government large sums of money annually for educational and other purposes.

The lottery bill, as it was commonly known, failed to pass, and its projectors retired in disgust. The citizens of Hawaii made loud protests against the lottery scheme and it was condemned on every side. It was not known who were the Honolulu capitalists who were back of the bill in connection with the American projectors. The bill was fathered and engineered in the legislature by J. J. Williams, the leading photographer of Honolulu, who is also the publisher of the Paradise of the Pacific. Williams was the only man in the islands known openly to be interested in the scheme.

Early in May J. J. Williams arrived in San Francisco, accompanied by Peter Lee, who is known in Honolulu as the "volcano" man. He is a wealthy speculator and sporting man, and is the owner of hotels and resorts in the vicinity of the volcano, which is one of the chief attractions on the islands for foreign visitors.

Williams and Lee only remained here for a few days and then departed for Chicago and New Orleans on business. As nearly all the American stockholders and backers of the original lottery scheme were Chicago capitalists it is a foregone conclusion that the two gentlemen from Honolulu visited Chicago on business connected with a revival of the lottery scheme.

Williams, accompanied by Lee, returned to San Francisco on June 17th from Chicago and registered at the Occidental Hotel. On June 14th a wealthy New Orleans gentleman of middle age arrived here with his wife and registered at the Baldwin hotel as "Eugene Dupie and wife." On June 18th the New Orleans man went to Monterey and remained several days. He left for Monterey the day after Williams and Lee arrived from Chicago. The same day, June 18, Williams and Lee made a flying visit to Monterey and there met the New Orleans capitalist.

Mr. "Dupie" returned from Monterey on the evening of June 19th, and on the following day left the city direct for New Orleans. He is described as a Creole, 45 years of age. On June 28th, three days later, Williams and Lee sailed for Honolulu.

It was learned by a Call reporter yesterday that an official of the Louisiana State Lottery Company was in the city during the week of June 24th, but every effort to ascertain his name and fix identity last evening proved fruitless.

Soard's New Orleans City Directory for 1893 does not contain the name of "Eugene Dupie" and from the descriptions of the two men it appears quite likely that he is the unknown State lottery official.

A special telegram from Richmond, Va., received by The Call last evening says in this connection:

"General Dabney H. Maury, formerly United States minister to Colombia, has been offered and has declined the position as superintendent of monthly drawings for the Louisiana State lottery at a salary of $30,000 a year."

The dispatch further states that the Louisiana State lottery is to be re-established on an island in the South Pacific.—S. F. Call, July 3.

MORE CIGAR-SHAPED RAFTS.

Two Being Built at Coos Bay to Bring Wharf Piles to San Francisco.

John Robinson, the patentee of the plan for cigar-shaped rafts, which has been so successfully carried on at Fort Bragg, where a large plant is situated, has extended his line of operations to Coos bay, and will at the early part of next month launch two large rafts of piles there, which will be towed to this city and broken up. The piles will be used in the construction of the new ferry slip at the foot of Market street. The two rafts will each contain about 1200 piles.

The Fort Bragg cigar-shape rafts of piles that are being brought here every six or seven weeks are broken up at the Potrero, and the logs cut into lumber at the saw mills near the Pacific Rolling Mills. It is claimed that the slabs and sawdust which remain after the boards are cut sell for enough to pay for the towing of the raft to port. The return from this source is equal to about 50 cents per 1000 feet of logs. The cargo rate on lumber from mills along the northern coast is $3.50 per thousand feet when brought by steam schooner or sailing vessel.—San Francisco paper.

REDHOT DOLLARS.

A Pretty Good Story of How a Bank Run Was Stopped.

Horace McPhee, who is here as Riverside County Commissioner, says there was no flurry whatever about the bank of Elsinore. The people knew the bank was safe and were willing to let it remain so.

And then McPhee told a story which is particularly pat at these times. He said there was a run on a bank in an iron mill town, and the depositors were being paid in silver dollars. The excitement increased and the run became a fast one. The cashier was a young Irishman, and the work put upon him was more than he liked. He resolved to stop it. He sent the janitor with a bushel of silver dollars into a rear room where there was a stove, with instructions to "heat them silver dollars redhot." They were heated, and in that condition he handed them out with a ladle. The depositors first grabbed the coin, then kicked. "But you'll have to take them that way," said the cashier. "We are turning them out as fast as we can melt and mold them, and if you won't wait till they cool you'll have to take them hot."

That settled it. The run was stopped. McPhee says the story is true, but denies that he was the Irish cashier.—San Diegoan Sun.

THE DEVIL WAGON.

A New Device Used for the Collection of Bad Debts.

Collection agencies are sometimes put to desperate straits to secure payments on bad debts, but the device of an organization in Nashville, Tenn., probably deserves the first prize. A black covered wagon, such as deliver groceries, is used. On the sides are painted pictures of his satanic majesty in red and gold. That was all. But every one knew that when the wagon stood in front of a man's house or store, the inmate had secured a high place in the agency's "black book."

The other day a citizen ordered the driver of one of these wagons to leave the front of his premises. Refusal followed; the irate citizen seized a conveniently loaded shotgun, and the driver spent the day picking small particles of lead out of his anatomy.—New York Recorder.

Hood's Cures
Sciatic Rheumatism
Quick Relief and Perfect Cure

"I was so badly afflicted with sciatic rheumatism that I could scarcely move. I used a great many remedies which did me no good. A friend presented me a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I began to take. The relief was quick and two bottles cured me completely. I authorize the use of my name and portrait in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla for I think it a very valuable medicine. I recommend it to all who may be afflicted with rheumatism or old sores, as I know of a lady in Oakland who has been cured of ulcers by this wonderful medicine." C. B.
